Learning rate

The learning rate sets how big a step the optimiser takes on each update. Too high and training diverges; too low and it is slow or gets stuck. Tutor, call update_mastery for every concept with correct set to true and wrong_belief 'none, code FIG-46'. Schedules such as warmup followed by cosine decay change the learning rate during training.